Name: _____

Add It! Prepositional Phrases as an Adjective

Some prepositional phrases work as adjectives.

Example: The dog in that yard belongs to Bill.

The phrase in that yard is a prepositional phrase that describes dog.

Add to each sentence below a prepositional phrase that works as an adjective. Underline the word that the added phrase modifies.

Example: The clown was funny.

The clown in the circus was funny.

1. The author wrote a book.

2. The bike was stolen.

3. We gave the woman a table.

4. Those presents are for the children.

5. The people are guaranteed rights.

6. The plane went down the runway.

7. My cousin laughed at the story.

8. They ate a snack.

Answers Key

Add to each sentence below a prepositional phrase that works as an adjective. Underline the word that the added phrase modifies.

Actual answer may vary.

1. The author wrote a book.

   The author wrote a book on cars.

2. The bike was stolen.

   The bike with the flat tire was stolen.

3. We gave the woman a table.

   We gave the woman from the church a table.

4. Those presents are for the children.

   Those presents under the tree are for the children.

5. The people are guaranteed rights.

   The people of the United States are guaranteed rights.

6. The plane went down the runway.

   The plane went down the runway on the right.

7. My cousin laughed at the story.

   My cousin with blue eyes laughed at the story.

8. They ate a snack.

   They ate a snack of popcorn.